The screenshot shows a Telegram chat interface with a dark theme. At the top, the title "BotFather" is displayed with a blue checkmark icon, indicating it is a verified bot. Below the title, it says "2,717,983 monthly users". The message history starts with a message from "BotFather" at 17:27: "/setuserpic - change bot profile photo /setcommands - change the list of commands /deletebot - delete a bot". This is followed by a section titled "Bot Settings" with commands like "/token - generate authorization token" and "/revoke - revoke bot access token". Further down are sections for "Web Apps" (with commands like "/myapps - edit your web apps") and "Games" (with commands like "/mygames - edit your games"). A message from the user at 16:43 reads "/newbot". A response from the bot at 16:44 asks, "Alright, a new bot. How are we going to call it? Please choose a name for your bot." The bottom of the screen features a "Write a message..." input field and various message input options.

- BotFather: Sorry, this username is already taken. Please try something different.
- (User): (Message sent at 16:45)
- BotFather: Done! Congratulations on your new bot. You will find it at [REDACTED] You can now add a description, about section and profile picture for your bot, see /help for a list of commands. By the way, when you've finished creating your cool bot, ping our Bot Support if you want a better username for it. Just make sure the bot is fully operational before you do this.
- BotFather: Use this token to access the HTTP API: [REDACTED]
- BotFather: Keep your token secure and store it safely, it can be used by anyone to control your bot.
- BotFather: For a description of the Bot API, see this page: <https://core.telegram.org/bots/api>

A large red arrow points from the bottom left towards the redacted token text, indicating where the token should be copied.
